Ronnie Joudo – Falling In Love In Galveston

My late father was a huge fan of Glen Campbell and his song Galveston, it was his favourite track and one of my favourites as well. One of my closest friends has told me how difficult it is to find someone, especially when you have children. I got the idea to write a love song of two people falling in love again from broken past relationships.

“Falling in Love in Galveston” is about a single male parent falling in love again with a woman that works in a coffee shop in Galveston. He finds it a little difficult to ask her out on a date but yet he hopes that they can go out with both their children and hopefully fall in love.
