Merylyn Steele – Things Ain't Always (What They Seem)

The latest single from Sydney based artist Merylyn Steele is a song relating to mental health and suicide prevention, urging us all to look out for one another and encouraging us to look deeper and reach out if we need to. Lyrically poignant and a most topical subject during this time.

Produced, engineered, mixed and mastered by Michael Carpenter at Love Hz Studios, Sydney. Performances by both Merylyn and Michael on this track are brilliant with Merylyn's voice being in fine form.

The song can be streamed or purchased on Bandcamp, iTunes/Apple, Amazon, Spotify etc and directly off her website; www.merylynsteele.com
