Lindsay Waddington – Roadworn

“Roadworn” is the titled track on Lindsay Waddington’s latest release and the second original released off the album. The song “Roadworn” was written remembering the years spent on the road, for not only him, but also his fellow musicians. Looking back at the miles they have travelled, as touring artists and musicians, which has been such a substantial part of their lives.

At the age of 15, Lindsay started his career as a drummer before transitioning to become a multi-instrumentalist and entertainer with his trademark yellow electric guitar, known for his unique style of playing “upside down”.

To date Lindsay has released 11 albums and won or received finalist nominations as an instrumentalist in many of Australia’s leading industry awards. In 2019 Lindsay was inducted into the prestige “Hands of Fame” in Tamworth NSW during Australia’s largest Country Music Festival and also won “Traditional Country Album of the Year” in Nebraska USA. Lindsay has also won many awards as a producer, including producer of “International Country Album of the Year” in Iowa, USA four times.
