Cameron Cusack - Song of a Pirate

Introducing the 6th studio release from Cameron Cusack "Song of a Pirate" recorded in tropical far North Queensland amongst the rainforest in Kuranda at Coconut Groove Studios.

Produced by both Lawry Goodwin and Cameron Cusack this song brings a rollercoaster ride of emotions of life as an entertainer, living on the road where home life can become difficult.

"Maybe my ship is slowly sinking, should I sail it back to shore and this rum that I've been drinking, it won't help me anymore", Within the song Cameron refers to the entertainer's life as somewhat similar to a life on a lonely ocean, filled with excitement and adventure stealing hearts and moving on, however an emptiness and sense of pressure of a life that no one really understands.
