Coad Sisters – Big Bandy

'Big Bandy' is a song about Coad Sisters original home area in SA.

Known locally as 'Big Bandy', Bendieuta Creek is a massive gum creek that carries flood water from the Flinders Ranges in South Australia out to the plains and Lake Frome.

Coad Sisters grew up in this isolated area so know first-hand how harsh the outback can be in drought and how welcome drought breaking rain is to the land and life upon it.

Rare are the 'inches' of rain that bring 'Big Bandy' down bank to bank.

Written by Virginia Hermel (of Coad Sisters) this vibrant toe tapping bush story was recorded by Coad Sisters and features the two sisters on vocals, harmonies and instrumentation.
